

am avoir tristesse

Now
that the summer
is gone...

I can finally say it...
I finally feel
like myself
again.

←
THE
ONLY
WAY

Since you took my hand that day back
in June while we were swimming and
promised me the moon, I went crazy
for you.

I WAS READY TO LET GO
OF EVERYTHING ELSE THAT MATTERED TO ME. EVEN MYSELF.
ALL FOR YOU.
AND I DID.

OH, HOW I DID!
AND IT WAS MAGICAL!

Until it wasn't.
Until you vanished
into thin air.
Nowhere to be found.
For weeks and weeks.

SO I WENT BACK TO THAT PLACE.
OUR PLACE.
WHERE YOU
SANG A LULLABY TO MY
EAR QUIETLY
UNDER THE STARS.

I went back to those stairs where we danced to the „Into My Arms“ cover by a local bar singer.

I even drove to that place in the woods
where we together
saw pictures of all
we would ever be. All the small things, and
all the major things.

I did all these things not to find you.

NOT TO BROOD

pathetically about how you've broken me or to try to relive those moments
with bitter romantic tears
in my eyes. No. I went there to close the chapter.

To show
myself
that I don't need to erase
the memories
of that summer
in order
to be me
again.

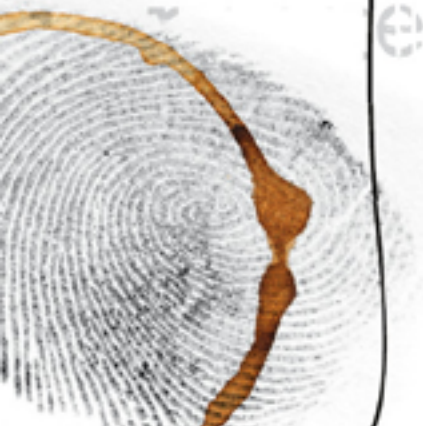

I WENT THERE TO TRULY
REMEMBER HOW BEAUTIFUL
YOU MADE ME FEEL, HOW MUCH
I HAVE GROWN AND LEARNED FROM US AND TO TRY AND REMIND MYSELF THAT IT WAS NOT ALL FOR NOTHING.

I will always have
this little piece of
your heart in my pocket, this little
piece of your time.
And I will never forget this one
summer I truly madly
deeply felt loved.

In spite of you.
